I'm just an ordinary guy. There is something very appealing about that much modesty! This 48 year old former Green Beret leaves in a few days for a bit of adventure travel...Expedition Everest, which will retrace the original route pioneered by Mallory and Irvine, up the Rongbuk glacier, Tibetan side.

This all seems somewhat incongruent for a man who works as a computer systems administrator. Cool, calm Kevin says, "It is with great anticipation that I depart, without fear, anxiety or reservation."

The team has eight British and American climbers, cinematographers, Sherpas, cook team and a doctor. Adventure Peaks Limited, headed by Dave Pritt will provide base camp support. Check the team's progress at everestnews.com or mounteverest.net.

This blessing is written on Kevin's web site, "May the Mother Goddess Chomolungma look favorably upon all the members of our expedition."
